- Mac TWAIN driver now available for existing Canon imageFORMULA P-150 users
- Canon's CaptureOnTouch software enables imageFORMULA P-150 users to quickly share information 'on the cloud' with data management software Evernote
- Canon's imageFORMULA P-150 improves worker productivity, in the office and on the move, by providing a portable "scan-anywhere" solution with its ultra compact and fast USB-powered scanning operation

REIGATE, May 10, 2010 – Canon UK, world leader in imaging solutions, today announced that its award winning* imageFORMULA P-150 portable scanner is now compatible with Apple Mac operating systems with the release of new Mac TWAIN driver and a Mac version of its user-friendly CaptureOnTouch software.

The latest download enables the multi-platform scanner to be used across all main popular operating system environments including PC, Linux and now Mac. The popularity of Mac systems in business markets has been significantly increasing over the last few years, resulting in a growth of Mac users needing to streamline their business processes and improve their productivity and efficiency to save costs.

Following its launch in November 2009, the PC-enabled imageFORMULA P-150 has already received strong sales success across Europe. The P-150's black piano finish, compact design and fast USB-powered scanning capabilities up to 15ppm appeals to both SOHO and corporate users alike. As one of the smallest and fastest duplex A4 scanners in its class, it is perfect for mobile executives to instantly transfer documents back to the office whilst visiting customers or travelling on business.

Trevor Dodsworth, Head of Product Marketing, Business to Business, Canon UK says, "After the successful launch of the imageFORMULA P-150 we received overwhelming interest from the Mac community, so we are pleased to now be able to announce that the P-150 can now also be used on Mac systems. The P-150's eye-catching design, innovative technology and portability will no doubt appeal to the style conscious Apple Mac market."

Capturing and sharing information on the cloud in networked environments can now be made easy and convenient with the new Mac and latest PC versions of Canon's CaptureOnTouch software. As part of the installation process users can select to also install cloud-based data management software Evernote and also add the "Scan-to-Evernote" JOB profile to the CaptureOnTouch software. With a simple one click operation users can upload and share information that is accessible at anytime from anywhere on the globe.

For existing imageFORMULA P-150 users, a Mac driver is now available to download from Canon's support website.
