

RUTLAND SEMINAR SCHEDULE*

Friday 16th August

Oliver Wright

10:00 - 10:40

Oliver Wright - The last 12 months of macro photography - Learnings whilst at home and away...

Over the last 12 months, Oliver has been working in Sweden, Poland and Ecuador, where he's been able to apply the macro skills developed on home turf. Some of them worked but not all, so this talk will go through his learnings and development of his photographic skills that can be applied at home or away.

David Noton

11:00 - 11:40

David Noton - Home Patch

David travels the world and has done for his photography for more than thirty years, yet so many of his favourite pictures are shot within a few minutes of home. These images are solely the product of his exploration, vision and local knowledge but also the fruits of a deep and enduring relationship with this landscape. He's lived in south-west England for 24 years but feels he's just embarking on this project. This collection of highlights represents some of the highs and lows, of which there will be more. He'll be shooting his home patch well in to the future and he couldn't think of a better place to explore!

Danny Green

12:00 - 12:40

Danny Green - High Arctic

Svalbard is without a doubt one of the most beautiful places on our planet. This remote and pristine environment made up of 60% ice is a land of mountains and tundra, glaciers, are home to a wealth of species, all set in the most awe-inspiring landscape. Located right on the southern fringe of the ever-frozen Arctic Ocean, it was always Danny's ambition to visit this beautiful archipelago and his first visit was in 2008. The sheer beauty of the place captivated him and this talk showcases some of his favourite images

Chris Packham

13:00 - 13:40

Oliver Wright - The last 12 months of macro photography - Learnings whilst at home and away...

Over the last 12 months, Oliver has been working in Sweden, Poland and Ecuador, where he's been able to apply the macro skills developed on home turf. Some of them worked but not all, so this talk will go through his learnings and development of his photographic skills that can be applied at home or away.

14:00 - 14:40

Chris Packham - Thinking Inside the Camera

It's tempting to think that you can grab images and fix them or enhance them later using software. But your camera is a complex instrument capable of extraordinary precision, so why not use it? For Chris, his EOS 5DS R is an extension of his imagination and when he presses the button, he wants all his dreams to come true. Do they? He'll let you be the judge!

Janet Southard

15:00 - 15:40

David Noton - Home Patch

David travels the world and has done for his photography for more than thirty years, yet so many of his favourite pictures are shot within a few minutes of home. These images are solely the product of his exploration, vision and local knowledge but also the fruits of a deep and enduring relationship with this landscape. He's lived in south-west England for 24 years but feels he's just embarking on this project. This collection of highlights represents some of the highs and lows, of which there will be more. He'll be shooting his home patch well in to the future and he couldn't think of a better place to explore!

16:00 - 16:40

Janet Southard - Life as a zoo photographer

Janet Southard from Wild Arena will share her professional work in the safari park and conservation world and demonstrate how it encompasses an array of subjects and photographic challenges. From PR images of new arrivals to technically recording research projects and veterinary procedures. Janet will talk through some recent images, detailing the equipment she uses and sharing tried and tested techniques.

The Canon logo in its signature red font.

Live for the story_

*Subject to change

RUTLAND SEMINAR SCHEDULE*

Saturday 17th August

David Noton

10:00 - 10:40

David Noton - Home Patch

David travels the world and has done for his photography for more than thirty years, yet so many of his favourite pictures are shot within a few minutes of home. These images are solely the product of his exploration, vision and local knowledge but also the fruits of a deep and enduring relationship with this landscape. He's lived in south-west England for 24 years but feels he's just embarking on this project. This collection of highlights represents some of the highs and lows, of which there will be more. He'll be shooting his home patch well in to the future and he couldn't think of a better place to explore!

Janet Southard

11:00 - 11:40

Janet Southard - Life as a zoo photographer

Janet Southard from Wild Arena will share her professional work in the safari park and conservation world and demonstrate how it encompasses an array of subjects and photographic challenges. From PR images of new arrivals to technically recording research projects and veterinary procedures. Janet will talk through some recent images, detailing the equipment she uses and sharing tried and tested techniques.

Oliver Wright

12:00 - 12:40

Oliver Wright - The last 12 months of macro photography - Learnings whilst at home and away...

Over the last 12 months, Oliver has been working in Sweden, Poland and Ecuador, where he's been able to apply the macro skills developed on home turf. Some of them worked but not all, so this talk will go through his learnings and development of his photographic skills that can be applied at home or away.

Danny Green

13:00 - 13:40

Danny Green - Wild Taiga

Wild Taiga, a never-ending forest, these northern forests are the realm to some of the most iconic species on the planet. From large predators, like the brown bear, wolf and wolverine to elusive birds like the great grey owl and golden eagle. Danny has spent 10 years travelling to these remote forests in all seasons to capture these images, which he will showcase during this talk.

Chris Packham

14:00 - 14:40

Chris Packham - Thinking Inside the Camera

It's tempting to think that you can grab images and fix them or enhance them later using software. But your camera is a complex instrument capable of extraordinary precision, so why not use it? For Chris, his EOS 5DS R is an extension of his imagination and when he presses the button, he wants all his dreams to come true. Do they? He'll let you be the judge!

15:00 - 15:40

Danny Green - High Arctic

Svalbard is without a doubt one of the most beautiful places on our planet. This remote and pristine environment made up of 60% ice is a land of mountains and tundra, glaciers, are home to a wealth of species, all set in the most awe-inspiring landscape. Located right on the southern fringe of the ever-frozen Arctic Ocean, it was always Danny's ambition to visit this beautiful archipelago and his first visit was in 2008. The sheer beauty of the place captivated him and this talk showcases some of his favourite images

16:00 - 16:40

Oliver Wright - The last 12 months of macro photography - Learnings whilst at home and away...

Over the last 12 months, Oliver has been working in Sweden, Poland and Ecuador, where he's been able to apply the macro skills developed on home turf. Some of them worked but not all, so this talk will go through his learnings and development of his photographic skills that can be applied at home or away.

Live for the story_

*Subject to change

RUTLAND SEMINAR SCHEDULE*

Sunday 18th August

Danny Green

10:00 - 10:40

Danny Green - Wild Taiga

Wild Taiga, a never-ending forest, these northern forests are the realm to some of the most iconic species on the planet. From large predators, like the brown bear, wolf and wolverine to elusive birds like the great grey owl and golden eagle. Danny has spent 10 years travelling to these remote forests in all seasons to capture these images, which he will showcase during this talk.

David Noton

11:00 - 11:40

David Noton - Home Patch

David travels the world and has done for his photography for more than thirty years, yet so many of his favourite pictures are shot within a few minutes of home. These images are solely the product of his exploration, vision and local knowledge but also the fruits of a deep and enduring relationship with this landscape. He's lived in south-west England for 24 years but feels he's just embarking on this project. This collection of highlights represents some of the highs and lows, of which there will be more. He'll be shooting his home patch well in to the future and he couldn't think of a better place to explore!

Oliver Wright

12:00 - 12:40

Oliver Wright - The last 12 months of macro photography - Learnings whilst at home and away...

Over the last 12 months, Oliver has been working in Sweden, Poland and Ecuador, where he's been able to apply the macro skills developed on home turf. Some of them worked but not all, so this talk will go through his learnings and development of his photographic skills that can be applied at home or away.

Janet Southard

13:00 - 13:40

Janet Southard - Life as a zoo photographer

Janet Southard from Wild Arena will share her professional work in the safari park and conservation world and demonstrate how it encompasses an array of subjects and photographic challenges. From PR images of new arrivals to technically recording research projects and veterinary procedures. Janet will talk through some recent images, detailing the equipment she uses and sharing tried and tested techniques.

14:00 - 14:40

Danny Green - High Arctic

Svalbard is without a doubt one of the most beautiful places on our planet. This remote and pristine environment made up of 60% ice is a land of mountains and tundra, glaciers, are home to a wealth of species, all set in the most awe-inspiring landscape. Located right on the southern fringe of the ever-frozen Arctic Ocean, it was always Danny's ambition to visit this beautiful archipelago and his first visit was in 2008. The sheer beauty of the place captivated him and this talk showcases some of his favourite images.

15:00 - 15:40

David Noton - Home Patch

David travels the world and has done for his photography for more than thirty years, yet so many of his favourite pictures are shot within a few minutes of home. These images are solely the product of his exploration, vision and local knowledge but also the fruits of a deep and enduring relationship with this landscape. He's lived in south-west England for 24 years but feels he's just embarking on this project. This collection of highlights represents some of the highs and lows, of which there will be more. He'll be shooting his home patch well in to the future and he couldn't think of a better place to explore!

The Canon logo in its signature red font.

Live for the story_

*Subject to change